

House Debates Repeal

Bill on Anti-Strike Law Repeal Plunges House In Argument; Attempts to Amend

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The House plunged into a heated debate on a bill to repeal Missouri's controversial utility anti-strike law today while the Senate worked its way through a series of bills that caused little fuss.

The utility anti-strike or King-Thompson law repealer came up after the House had advanced several local and minor bills. Opponents of the repealer immediately started trying to amend it.

It looked like a long argument ahead for the House.

The Senate, after advancing a hotly disputed "big truck" bill yesterday, methodically tackled the job of passing Senate bills and sending them to the House.

One of the first, passed 28-1, would put all employees of the State Division of Mental Diseases, including the state hospitals under workmen's compensation coverage. The state would serve as a self-insurer under the plan.

Sen. Robert A. Pentland (D) of St. Louis said that if the law had been in effect last year, 19 injured employees would have been paid $5,400 for their injuries.

Senate Votes To Advance Truck Bill

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — By a one-sided vote the Senate advanced a bill yesterday that would let longer and heavier trucks operate on Missouri highways without paying any new fees.

If passed by the Senate later, as expected from the preliminary voting, the bill still would face amendment in the House in the remaining weeks of the session.

As it was moved ahead yesterday after more than four hours of argument, the bill would raise the length limit on big trucks from 45 to 50 feet and the weight limit from 60,010 to 64,650 pounds. The top state license fee would stay at $600.

Sen. Leo J. Rozier (R) of Perryville, leading the fight against the bill, charged a truck lobby he called arrogant and smug was cramming an unfair bill down the throats of the senators.

He tried unsuccessfully to tack on an extra $400 fee for trucks over 60,000 pounds but was ruled out of order by Lt. Gov. Edward V. Long. Long held that would change the purpose of the bill.

Rozier said failure to increase the fees would increase the present inequities. He quoted a highway department report showing that passenger-cars now pay almost $3 million more than their proportionate share of road costs.

In a final effort Rozier also failed to get the bill referred to the voters at the 1958 general election.

Before that the Senate had methodically knocked down a series of proposals to regulate the speed and operation of the largest trucks—including one that would have required a pedestrian to precede each truck by 100 feet, carrying a red flag by day and a red lantern at night.

Senator Ted Hawkins To Be Guest Speaker For Church Women

The annual May Fellowship Luncheon of the United Church Women's Association will be held Friday, May 3, at the Wesley Methodist Church. Mrs. Herb Suder is chairman.

Guest speaker will be Missouri Senator C. R. "Ted" Hawkins of the 33rd Senatorial District, who will speak on "Free Schools in Free America." Sen. Hawkins attended the White House conference on education in 1955.

All church women are invited to attend. Anyone wishing to make a reservation should contact her church secretary.

Armed Forces Fight Mock Canal Attack

FORT CLAYTON, C. Z. (AP) — Supersonic jet fighters, jet fighter-bombers and light bombers headed for Panama from their U. S. bases before dawn today to help fight off a mock attack on the Panama Canal.

Their target was an "enemy" beachhead near the ancient fort of San Lorenzo, Spanish bastion three centuries ago.

FLOOD WATERS BREAK LEVEE—Surging waters of Chambers Creek, a tributary of the Trinity River, rush through a break in a levee near Corsicana, Tex., as the stream continued to rise. Desires to Back Hussein

US Appears Ready To Give Jordan Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States appeared ready today to offer U. S. military aid to Jordan as well as help in easing the life of her 550,000 Palestinian refugees—if it is asked.

Secretary of State Dulles, outlining U. S. policy toward the unsettled Middle East kingdom, told a news conference yesterday:

"It is our desire to hold up the hands of King Hussein . . . to the extent that he thinks we can be helpful. He is the judge of that . . ."

"We have great confidence and regard for King Hussein . . ."

Special Ambassador James P. Richards is resting for a few days at Asmara, Eritrea, after weeks of touring the Middle East to sell the Eisenhower plan for anti-Communist defense.

Under that plan, approved by Congress last month, the United States has been offering both military and economic aid to Middle East countries seeking assistance in staving off Communist inroads. A 200-million-dollar fund is available for that purpose.

But whether Richards would go to Jordan to discuss possible aid appeared to depend on developments there. "Naturally he is not going to go to any country where he is not welcome," Dulles replied to a question about Jordan.

Strife-torn for two weeks, Jordan was facing a new political crisis as leftist elements sought to upset the week-old government of Premier Hussein Khalidi. Among leftist demands are that the government refuse to receive Richards and that the United States halt what was called "interference" in Jordan's affairs.

Dulles praised King Hussein.

Reports Radioactive Material Content Rise In Milk and Bones

WASHINGTON (AP)—The weather bureau said today it will have to cut out proposed programs it listed as "essential to aviation safety" if budget cuts voted by the House are sustained.

Installations throughout the United States and in the Pacific are involved. The House put the bureau's appropriation for the fiscal year starting July 1 at $37,480,100, about two million dollars more than that for the current year but $1,800,000 less than was asked.

It eliminated all the budget bureau's request for $1,022,000 for new weather services designed for jet aircraft operations and for increased safety of all planes in flight.

Large Crowds Attend

'Merchandise Fair' Will Have Last Showing Tonight

The Merchandise Fair sponsored by the Jaycees is attracting a large crowd each night to Convention Hall, Liberty Park, and the last night for the show is tonight.

Although the show isn't quite as large as usual it has a variety with things of interest for all. The new refrigerators shown have that built-in look, don't have to be destroyed and has the picture window hydrator on the door. Too, a lever will drop ice cubes into a container below it. Then there is a mattress on which the 200 pound weight tumbles back and forth and the materials that go into the mattress from ticking to coils are shown. The hide-a-bed is an attractive davenport, but with just a touch will unfold into a bed with an innerspring mattress all by itself. It will tilt forwards, too, so it is easy to clean behind.

A big motorboat seems to be attracting a large crowd of men who perhaps are dreaming of the

Directs Acquittal In Trial

Liquor Trial Will Continue for Other 17 Persons Charged With Conspiracy

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — U. S. District Judge Royce H. Savage today directed acquittals for Nolen Bulloch, Cliff Wells and Bernard Neil Williams, three of 20 defendants accused of breaking federal liquor laws.

Bulloch is the Tulsa Tribune's ace crime reporter. Wells is a professional bondsman, and Williams was one of seven bootleggers accused.

Savage acted on defense motions for direct acquittal on grounds the government's evidence was insufficient to support the indictment. Overruling all other motions for acquittal of the remaining 17 defendants, the judge ordered the trial, now in its seventh day, to proceed.

The defendants were indicted on charges they conspired to bring liquor into constitutionally dry Oklahoma and sell it without paying special taxes. The prosecution has sought to show they acted as part of a system of police protection payoffs.

Immediately after Bulloch, Wells and Williams were freed, the government served them with subpoenas to appear as prosecution witnesses.

The judge had indicated yesterday he would free Bulloch and Wells, and possibly Williams. He stated what he termed his tentative views after defense attorneys had presented motions for acquittal. U. S. Attorney B. Hayden Crawford had rested the government case with the privilege of reopening after arguments on the motions.

City to Collect Trash During Cleanup Week

Time to clean the house, the garage, the yard, and next week a truck to pick up the trash will follow the garbage truck over town. The day the garbage man is due is the day to have all trash in cardboard boxes or other containers and out by the garbage can. This is a free service offered during clean-up week by the city to its citizens.

Next week April 29 through May 4, is clean-up week and the Democrat-Capital will have a big issue on the theme, "Your Home and Better Living." There will be suggestions and ideas on remodeling, building on rooms, patching, finishing the attic, how to keep the house comfortable, fence building, screening porches, working with concrete, upholstering old furniture, what lumber to buy, screening porches and all kinds of work to be done around the home.

Building fences and repair jobs around yard, making flower beds, putting out trees and shrubs, everything to make the home more attractive. Clean-up, paint-up, fix-up everything is looking up for prettier homes and better living.

First American Ship Enters Suez Canal Since Block Last Fall

SUEZ, Egypt (AP)—The President Jackson, first American flagship to enter the Suez Canal since it was blocked last fall, started through the waterway today from the southern end.

The ship's agents said the $10,295 toll for movement through the 103-mile canal was paid in U. S. dollars — as required by Egypt's new canal regulations — but under protest. The U. S. State Department previously had suggested such procedure for American vessels using the canal.

SAYS HELD CAPTIVE—Marjorie Jordan, 28, left, is shown in London after police removed her from a dugout beneath the garden of an eccentric inventor. She claims she was held captive for 105 days but the inventor, John Bridal, 26, right, gave a conflicting version. Detectives studying the two statements took no immediate official action. She was released from the underground den after a neighbor found a penciled note from the woman asking for help. (AP Wirephoto via radio from London)

Senate Group Hears Of 'False' Affidavit

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two women testified today they signed a "false" affidavit reflecting on a key Senate racket investigation witness under threats from a Portland, Ore., deputy sheriff. The deputy denounced the women's story as a "hoax."

Deputy George Minnelly took the witness chair after hearing the testimony of the two women and shouted: "This is the greatest

Urges Steps For Coverage In Red China

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators Mansfield (D-Mont.) and Kefauver (D-Tenn.) today urged steps toward opening the way for permanent American news coverage in Communist China.

Secretary of State Dulles told a news conference yesterday the State Department is willing to allow a group of newsmen operating on a "pool" basis to pay a one-shot visit to China if it still can maintain existing bans on travel by other Americans to that country. But he said no satisfactory way has yet been found to do that.

Mansfield, the acting Senate Democratic leader, said Dulles' idea was all right as a beginning. Under the "pool" plan, a selected number of reporters would tour China and would make their news available to all news media.

But he said this should be widened, as the opportunity arises, to permit the stationing of qualified newsmen in China. He noted the Associated Press Board of Directors had said that qualified newsmen should be permitted to report at first hand from the mainland.

"I think it would be better if the American press associations, the newspaper chains and others had the right to send their representatives to any part of the world so that the American people could receive as unbiased reporting as possible on the events in those areas," Mansfield said.

Kefauver said in a separate interview he believes the State Department should take the wraps off newsmen who have been denied visas to Red China.

"I am in favor of letting American reporters go to Red China without any limitations," he said. "It is better to get news from there through our own people than from canned information of some Communist bureau. Our people are entitled to know what is going on in Red China."

Most of State Out Of Shower Pattern

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Most of Missouri seems to be out of the rain and shower pattern for a while.

The exception is the southeast corner for which scattered showers and thunderstorms are forecast for this afternoon, tonight and Thursday.

Heaviest precipitation in the past 24 hours was .48 of an inch at Rolla.

Although it will be a little cooler tonight in the northwest, temperatures through next Monday will average three to four degrees above normal. Highs Thursday will range from the 70s in the north to the 80s in the south.

Missouri Pacific Net Income Shows Rise

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Missouri Pacific Railroad's net earnings for the first quarter of the year totaled $3,909,071 compared to $3,844,182 for the same period of last year.

The railroad also announced yesterday it has accrued $800,000 for federal income taxes compared with $1,300,000 for the period last year.

Jordan Faces Second Crisis

Mobilize Rioters, Strike In Effort Against Khalidi

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Leftist opponents mobilized rioters and a general strike today in an effort to bring down the government of Premier Hussein Khalidi.

The 70-year-old Premier, who reputedly has Western leanings, kept up busy negotiations in a desperate fight to strengthen his threatened Cabinet, named by King Hussein last week after a fierce struggle with pro-Egyptian political and military leaders.

Capital Gets Contest Honor Second Year

Receives Award For Typography, Printing, Makeup

For the second straight year, The Sedalia Capital reached the finals of judging in the 27th annual newspaper contest of N. W. Ayer and Son for papers of less than 10,000 circulation.

As a two-time finalist, The Capital also stood out for the second year in a row as the only Missouri newspaper to be honored in the nation-wide contest. Judging was based on excellence in typography, makeup and printing.

The Goshen (Ind.) News, a newspaper of only 7,745 circulation, set a precedent for small papers by winning top prize of the contest, the Ayer Cup. The News became the smallest paper to ever win that award.

Honorable mentions in the less than 10,000 circulation class went in the following order to The Lock Haven (Pa.) Express, The Daily Times, Gainesville, Ga., and The Emporia (Kan.) Gazette. There were 307 entries in this class.

First Honorable in the 10,000 to 50,000 class was awarded to The Free Press, Colorado Springs, Colo.; and The Courier-Journal, Louisville, Ky., won First Honorable Mention in the more than 50,000 circulation class.

Judging was made on newspaper issues of March 5.

In choosing the winners, the judges followed the rule that a good-looking newspaper must first reach out and get the reader's attention by its overall design, and then must present its news in a clean, orderly and easy-to-read manner.

H. A. Batten, chairman of the board of N. W. Ayer and Son, said, "The vitality of newspapers, and their constant experimenting to improve their service to readers, has never been better illustrated than this year."

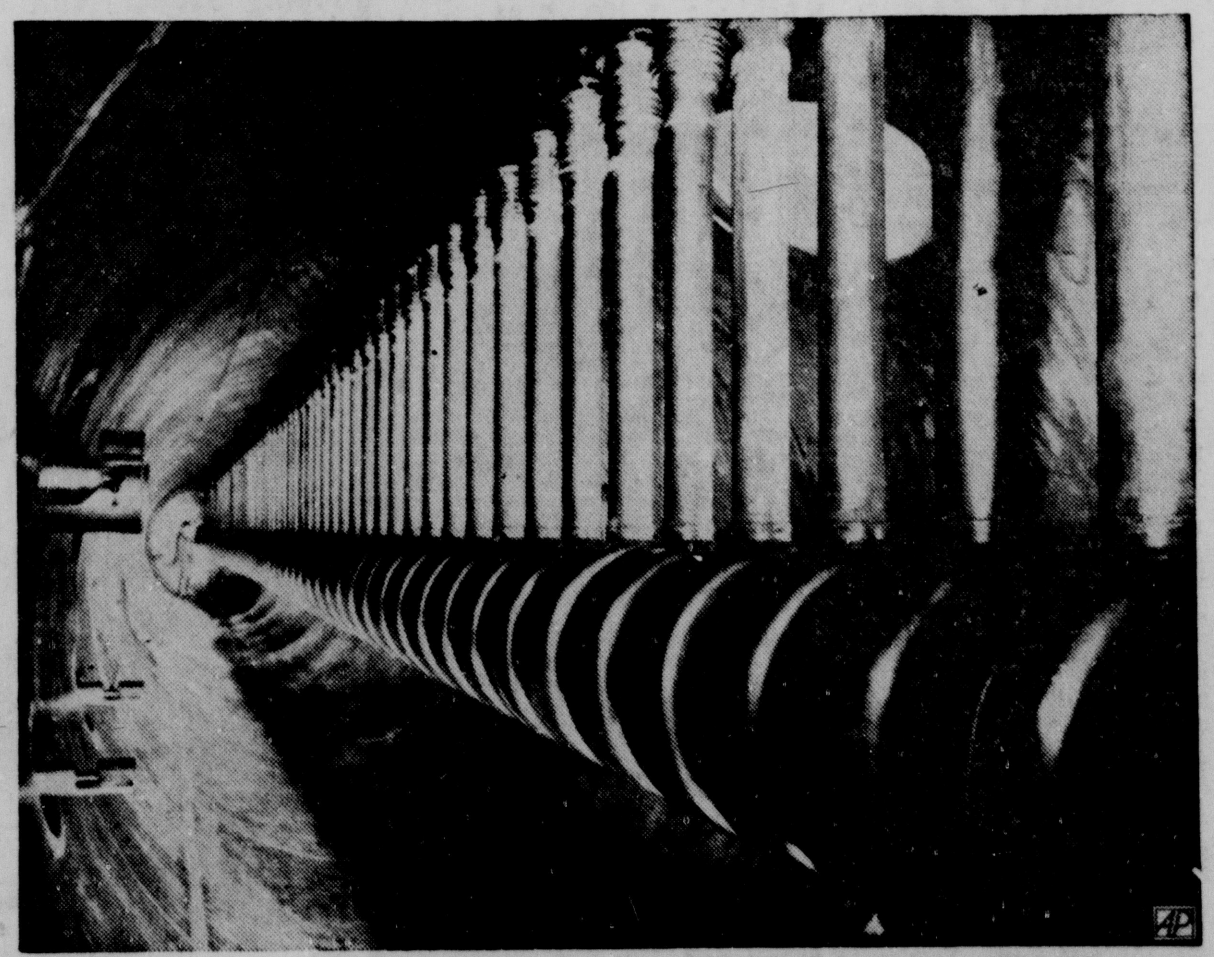

Judges were General Carlos P. Romulo, Philippine Ambassador to the United States and winner of the 1942 Pulitzer Prize in Journalism; Ladislav Sutnar, internationally-known poster designer, and John Anderson, typographic consultant.

New Series of Free Polio Shots Available For First Test Group

NEW YORK (AP)—A new series of free Salk vaccine shots is being made available for children who were "polio pioneers" in the 1954 experimental tests.

If all segments of the industry can agree, Congress will be asked to switch from the present program based on price control and acreage allotments.

Found After Forest Blaze

'Smokey,' the Fire Fighting Symbol Was Mean As Cub

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—The truth about Smokey the bear can now be told.

He was the meanest darned bear ever to come out of New Mexico, bar none.

Smokey, now a full-grown 6-year-old black bear, lives in the Washington Zoo at the nation's capital. He has been seen by millions of zoo visitors and has had his picture plastered over most of the nation since the day he was found with all four feet scorched wandering in the fire-blackened Lincoln National Forest.

At the risk of spoiling the illusions of the nation's kiddies, who have seen Smokey pictured as a fat, benevolent bear wearing a ranger's hat, let it be said here

Says Judges Don't Work Hard Enough

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Judges don't work hard enough and a small number of lawyers have far too many cases, a team of University of Pennsylvania Law School professors say.

The professors have just completed a yearlong survey of civil procedures in the courts of Philadelphia and six other counties. The study was made by the university's Institute of Legal Research.

A spokesman for the institute said the same situation exists in many other states.

Lawyers working on the study spent several weeks as observers in Philadelphia courtrooms. They reported that judges averaged 3 hours and 56 minutes on the bench during jury trials and 2 hours and 25 minutes when hearing trials without juries.

This, the report said, was a "substantial waste of time by the common pleas courts."

Trials were interrupted by judges' out-of-town trips, faulty preparation by attorneys, telephone calls and ventilation of a courtroom, the survey reported.

The study turned up 579 cases not completed after three years and some still hanging after seven years.

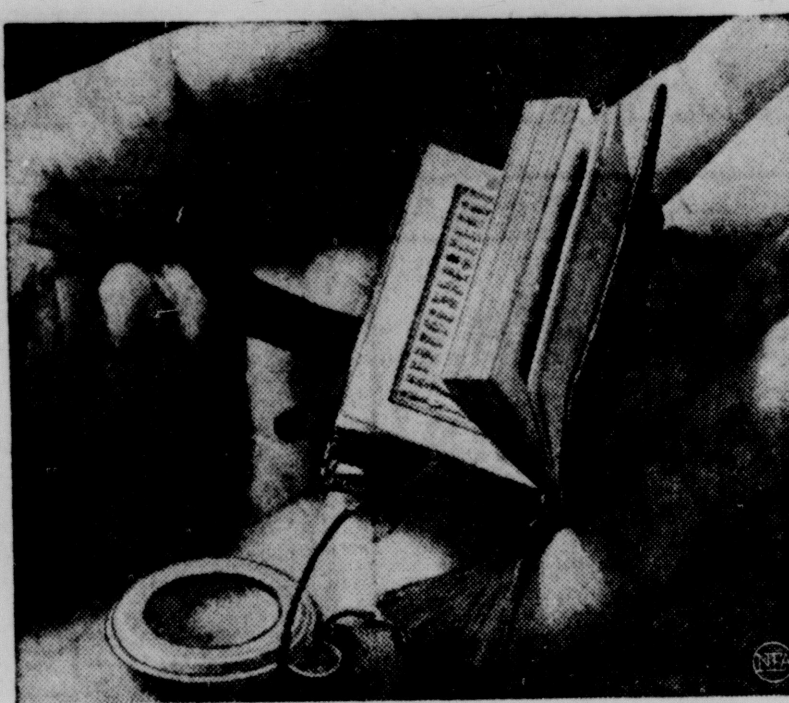

The professors said 11 law firms are involved in 40 per cent of Philadelphia trial cases. The report states that judges must take more stringent steps with lawyers who have more cases than they can handle and aren't getting their clients' suits before the courts.

Ike Relaxes Between Meets With Officials

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower took it easy today in between conferences with key administration officials.

Eisenhower is planning a legislative conference here tomorrow with Secretary of Labor Mitchell. They plan to confer at the President's vacation headquarters on whether new antitrust laws are needed to protect the health and welfare funds of labor unions.

Eisenhower met yesterday with his adviser on disarmament matters, Harold E. Stassen, on the prospects for ending the atomic arms race with Russia. After that session at the Augusta National Golf Club, Stassen flew on to London for resumption of talks today with the Russians on inspection and control of weapons.

Miss Sumac's suit for divorce, which followed in April.

A preliminary bout Monday night, in which Vivanco said he was roughed up by two private detectives who threatened to shoot him.

But the main event was staged yesterday morning, when irate Miss Sumac, 35-year-old songbird from the mountains of Peru, went to the Vivanco home to pick up some of her personal things. Sunday witnesses furnished this account of what happened thereafter:

Vivanco welcomed Miss Sumac

but objected to the presence of the private eyes. Fred Otash, 220-pound detective, went down in a tangle of Peruvians a little later, when Vivanco sought to eject him with the aid of the pretty Inca folk dancers, Esmla Zevallos, 18, and Yola Rivero, 40, who said they were working as maids in the Vivanco house.

But when Miss Sumac first got there, everything was peaceful. Miss Zevallos was singing, Jose Farfan, who had arrived only an hour before from Peru, was playing the alpa, an ancient Inca harp.

Edith Harms Becomes Bride Of J. C. Cox

Miss Edith Harms became the bride of J. C. Cox at eight o'clock Friday evening, April 12, at the Brandon Methodist Church, Windsor. The Rev. E. F. Dillon performed the double ring ceremony before a chancel setting of assorted flowers illuminated by white tapers in candelabra in the background which were lighted by Ragene Washburn and Earl Peck.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Harms, Windsor, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cox, Leeton.

Miss Mary Carolyn Hunt played the traditional wedding marches and accompanied Miss Zonnie Riddle who sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a pale blue fitted wool suit which was accented with self-fabric tabs in front and at the waistline in the back. She wore a wide-brimmed, white straw braid hat with a harmonizing veil and white accessories. Her corsage was brown orchids.

Miss Marian Buesing, Emma, wore a beige suit with matching accessories. Her corsage was red roses.

Bob Cox, brother of the bridegroom, Centerview, served as best man. Ushers were Ragene Washburn and Earl Peck.

Miss Wilma Cox, sister of the bridegroom, was in charge of the guest book.

The bride's mother wore a blue dress with white accessories. Her corsage was yellow carnations. Mrs. Cox, mother of the bridegroom, wore a light brown suit with brown accessories. Her corsage was pink carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church basement. The three-tiered wedding cake was accented with small pink rosebuds and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Lighted white tapers in silver candelabra encircled the cake. Mrs. William Alspaugh, sister of the bride, Marceline, cut and served cake. Mrs. Bob Cox, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, Centerview, served punch.

Miss Betty Harms, sister of the bride, and Miss Glynna Elliott, cousin of the bride, were in charge of gifts and assisted in serving. Following a short wedding trip in southern Missouri, the couple will return to their farm north of Leeton.

Mrs. Cox graduated from Windsor High School in 1956 and attended Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg.

Mr. Cox graduated from Leeton High School in 1951. He is employed by the Missouri State Highway Department at Warrensburg.

Attention Brides

Attention all brides and the brides-to-be: Beginning Sunday, April 28, we will revive an old policy concerning bridal photographs. To have your picture appear in a Sunday edition it must be in the newsroom within 15 days following the ceremony. Pictures received later will appear in a weekday edition. All pictures must be in the newsroom before or by Thursday if they are to appear in the Sunday edition. Thus if you were married April 14 your picture could be in the paper April 21 or April 28.

To clean scorched stainless steel skillet correctly, soak in hot, soapy water, then scour with abrasive cleanser.

Don't Use Steel Wool For Scouring Stainless Steel

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

The favorable nod we home-makers have given stainless steel products has not only boosted their production plans for 1957 but it has brought to the attention of the industry's engineers. They want us to know how to get the best service from stainless steel, whether it's used in pots and pans, sink or stove tops, flatware or hollow ware.

It seems we often give it too much care! Methods that are proper for servicing other materials are not necessarily correct for this shining metal.

Our practice, for example, of automatically picking up a steel wool scouring pad every time we approach a dirty pan should be halted. A stainless steel utensil, engineers explain, won't rust in ordinary household use. But it can be scratched by steel wool. Furthermore, slivers of steel wool can become embedded in the surface and these will rust and discolor.

Recommended treatment for the greasy, scorched or stubbornly dirty pan is to soak in hot, soapy water and finish the cleaning with household abrasive cleanser. Or use scouring pads of stainless steel wool, which won't rust.

Sometimes I've let a stainless skillet get too hot and the metal discolors. This "heat tint" doesn't harm the metal and it can be removed with a paste of abrasive cleanser and water. To scrub stainless steel, apply cleanser in the direction of the polish lines on the surface — "with the grain" of the metal — to prevent scratching and preserve the high surface finish.

The housewife's habit of waxing appliances and countertops is not advised for stainless steel trims or tops. A clean steel surface stays bright by itself; exposure to the air actually helps to keep it that way. If you note spots or streaks on trimmings or taps, blame leftover soap or mineral deposits in the water. You can avoid them by wiping off the wet steel with a dry cloth which polishes as it dries.

Although a wooden chopping block is the proper place to slice bread and vegetables, some of us whack up vegetables on the drainboard by the sink. This practice will scar or scratch almost any material, including stainless steel.

Scratching won't hurt metal, but it does affect the appearance. Such scratches can be polished out with an abrasive cleanser applied with a rag and a strong right arm.

True to its name, the metal is not discolored by acid fruits, oils or other foods.

Claim Fashion Houses Overtaxed

Grim Economics Has Eliminated Many Famous Names From The Fashion World Since War

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

NEA Staff Correspondent
PARIS — (NEA) — Everybody knows that women's way of dressing, the world over, is governed by the style trends which twice yearly are presented by the big-name Paris designers.

But behind the scenes of the luxurious salons of the Avenue Matignon and the Faubourg Saint Honore a grim battle has been waged since the end of World War II between the ideals of art and stern economics.

In plain words this means that as a business proposition a dress-making house is no longer the potential gold mine it was in the roaring 1920's when designers like Poiret, Chanel, Vionnet, the Callot sisters and others ruled the world of fashion.

Today the heavy burden of taxes, social security, high production and overhead costs leave a relatively small margin of profit which anyway is strictly controlled by the state.

Recently a French businessman quipped that the haute couture was a "grande dame" who lived way beyond her income and did not realize her hour had struck. The fact remains that since liberation no less than nine famous names have disappeared from the fashion world — Lelong, Molyneux, Rochas, Piguet, Worth, Paquin, Dormoy, Schiaparelli and only a few weeks ago, after 37 years in the business, Germaine Lecomte.

All nine had started in the good old days when taxes were negligible and society women (and others) from every country in the world, came to Paris to buy their clothes. Their number has dwindled considerably. It was estimated recently that there were only a few thousand women in the entire world who could afford to dress in the haute couture exclusively with prices ranging roughly from $500 to $2,500 for a simple little dress or a grand ball gown.

Because a dressmaking house depends on the inspiration of a mere handful of people — Dior, for example, designs all his models, makes hundreds of sketches before starting on a collection — it is difficult if not impossible to run it on strictly business lines.

Nobody has yet been able to convince a couturier that he need not show such a great number of lavish evening creations which are in effect nothing more than museum pieces. No businessman will ever understand the wastage which happens in the process of creating a collection (cost — from $30,000 to $300,000) when a creator will think nothing of discarding 30 models out of say 150.

But there a creator's inevitable retort is that you cannot produce a unique creation on an assembly line as you would an automobile.

Mme. Lecomte, explaining why she quit, declared: "When I made a sale of one million francs, 860,000 were already absorbed by taxes and various expenses. Because the haute couture is considered a luxury industry, we are taxed higher than any other. Yet it is to our and its corollary industries that France owes some of her prestige in the world."

Still bristling with energy, Mme. Lecomte reminisced about the old days when she dressed queens and princes, leaders of the international as well as France's social sets and theatrical and movie stars.

"But the most extraordinary clients of all were the South Americans," she recalled. "In the days before air travel they would arrive at the Ritz in Paris followed by an army of secretaries, personal

Considering Work Required Patterns Are a Bargain

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Women's Editor
In today's high cost of living, one of your best bargains is a modern dress pattern.

Have you ever wondered how a pattern is made, how long it takes, how many people are involved? Well, here's the lowdown, from local sewing center experts:

It takes 50 people working steadily for three months to produce a new pattern for the home seamstress. Consider that an average pattern catalog contains more than 1,100 patterns and transfers, and that 30 or 40 new designs are added to this catalog each month, and you may get some idea of the magnitude of the operation.

Let's take a look behind the scenes at one of the largest and oldest pattern companies. Inspiration usually begins with the Paris showings. Then a designer begins the pattern with a fashion figure sketch. She may sketch as many as 10 slightly different designs for each one that finally is put into the line.

After she has made her sketches, the designer makes up a miniature pattern in muslin, fitting it on a mannikin less than three feet high — half the size of a regular pattern mannikin. After changes are made on the halfsize garment a full-size muslin copy is made. Each pattern piece is then checked against a pattern "staple," which is one of a series of heavily glazed paper pattern pieces representing every pattern part, to insure absolute accuracy.

The muslin then is made up in every version shown on the pattern envelope — with short sleeves, long sleeves, full skirt, slender skirt. Then a live model tries on the muslin garment to make sure it has ease and practicality in movement. After adjustments are made, the muslin receives an okay from the designer.

Now the fabric expert comes in to the picture, to decide on suitable fabrics to recommend for this design. The pattern then is made up in the chosen fabrics.

Next artists sketch the dress as it will appear in color on the pattern envelope and in the catalog.

Periodic Suffering By Many Women Unwarranted

By Dr. J. J. Rodewald

Many women suffer needlessly every month. Aside from the pain that must be endured, there is an upset of the entire nervous system. Irritability, melancholia, depression, and headaches are some of the common symptoms.

The nerves which control the function and activity of the female organs also lead to the muscles of the back, legs, and bowels, and other organs in the vicinity. These nerve trunks emit from the spine in approximately the same place. Slight spinal or hip displacement causes irritation of these nerves with the attending combination of symptoms and trouble. That is why backache or constipation are also associated with each period.

The chiropractor locates and removes nerve irritation through spinal adjustments and by so doing removes the cause of the trouble and nature does the rest. Phone 392 for an appointment and cease unwarranted suffering.

Names Similar Looking Man For Assault

NEW YORK (AP)—Freedom is on the way for a playground director who looks like a twin brother of Thomas Joseph Higgins, accused slayer of two women and attacker of seven others.

Russell Erickson, the director, was arrested last Feb. 14 on a charge of assaulting a woman. She cleared him yesterday by identifying Higgins as her attacker.

The woman, Mrs. Mary Rasmussen, 33, sat in Brooklyn Federal Court while Higgins was arraigned on a homicide charge.

"I am positive he is the man who assaulted me," the blonde housewife told police. She had previously singled out Erickson as the man.

Erickson has been out on $5,000 bail. The charge is now due to be dropped.

Erickson is 22, 6 feet 1, 175 pounds and has blond hair. Higgins is 22, 6 feet 2½, 192 pounds and has blond hair.

Coincidentally, Erickson said he met Higgins in a bar once two years ago. "He seemed like a very nice guy," Erickson said.

Higgins is charged with homicide in the hammer death of Patricia Ruland, 19, last Wednesday. Police say he has also confessed to beating Mrs. Dorothy Campbell, 53, to death last Jan. 29.

Both slayings came during back-seat petting parties in automobiles, police said Higgins told them.

A judge turned down a defense request yesterday to send Higgins to Kings County Hospital for mental observation. The state argued that the strapping young mechanic is sane enough to go to trial.

In Washington, the Army disclosed that Higgins was once convicted by a court-martial of assault on a Japanese girl. He was serving with the Army in Japan at the time. He was demoted and fined.

Erickson has been on leave from his job in a Park Department playground in Brooklyn. He plans to return to work and complete a physical education course.

Erickson also plans a June wedding. His fiancée, Barbara Campbell, 23, is the daughter of the woman allegedly slain by Higgins last January.

Lt. Col. Robert Langdale

WAFB Unit Gets New Commander

Lt. Col. Robert H. Langdale replaced Lt. Col. Arthur J. Thompson, Jr., last week as commander of the 340th Air Refueling Squadron.

Col. Langdale first came to Whiteman last January but was immediately sent on a nine-week TDY (temporary duty) to attend an aircraft management school at Chanute AFB, Ill., which he completed the last of March. His assignment before coming here was with the 7227 Support Group at Udine, Italy.

Entering the service as an aviation cadet in 1940, the colonel, a command pilot now, has had many varied assignments including B-29 commander of a lead crew in 20th Air Force during WW II. He flew 26 B-29 combat missions in WW II and one B-29 mission during the Korean War.

Some of Col. Langdale's assignments after WW II have been director of flying at the USAF Instrument School, Barksdale AFB, La.; director of operations in a B-29 School at Randolph AFB, Tex.; assistant director of crew training in CTA (Crew Training Air Force) also at Randolph; and director of air defense at the combined headquarters of 17th Air Force and SAC's Fifth Air Division in Morocco. After this last assignment, the colonel was transferred to an assignment with the 7227 Support Group at Udine, Italy, which he held before coming to Whiteman.

Col. Langdale has attended both the B-47 Combat Crew School and the Air Command Staff School, graduating from the latter in December, 1953. He and his wife and one child are presently living at 115 Travis Lane on base.

Lt. Col. Arthur J. Thompson, Jr., whom Col. Langdale replaced, left Whiteman this week for his new assignment as chief of the air refueling branch in operations at Headquarters Eighth Air Force, Westover AFB, Mass. He had been ARS commander since September, 1954.

Says Egypt Has No Basis For Ouster

ROME (AP)—Barrett McGurn, New York Herald Tribune correspondent, says the charges Egypt's government used to expel him from Cairo were without basis.

Egyptian officials said McGurn was ousted for cabling stories "attributed to responsible Egyptian officials which were complete fabrications and definitely detrimental to the Egyptian nation." McGurn declared on his arrival in Rome from Cairo last night.

"The charges are unfounded, quite unfounded," he quoted Egyptian official sources accurately in all his news items from Egypt.

"This is the first I've heard about the reasons for being kicked out."

"They didn't tell me why I had to leave, just that I had to go."

In a dispatch to the Herald Tribune, McGurn wrote:

"I assumed the reason for the expulsion was articles I wrote during the last eight weeks in Egypt, and possibly a group of pieces in the past week discussing the troubles of Western and Christian minorities in the face of Arab nationalism and Moslem favoritism."

The New York office of the Herald Tribune said only one of the articles on the minorities had appeared — on Tuesday morning — but several more are slated for later publication.

In its Wednesday morning lead editorial, the Herald Tribune called McGurn's ouster "a crowning distinction in a long career." It said, "The explanation is pretty obvious — honest and objective reporting of the news does not sit well with zgamal Abdel Nasser or any other dictator."

University Dean Has Bee Venom in Veins

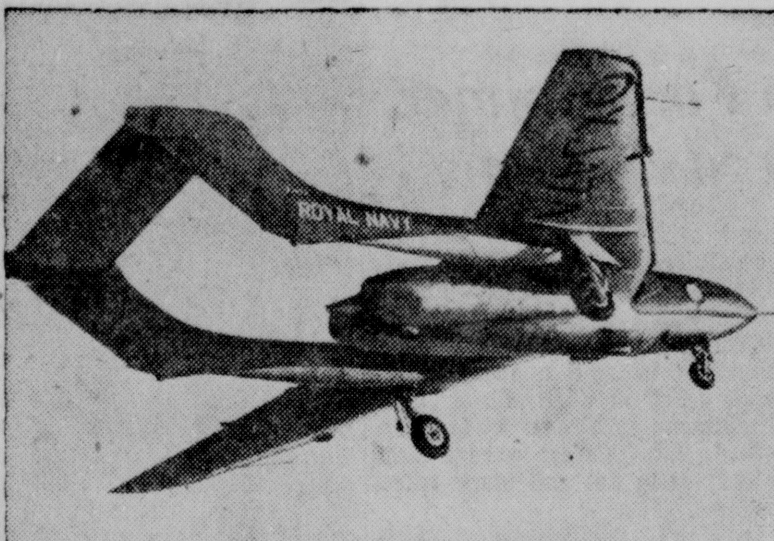

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The dean of the University of Louisville medical school is carrying a substantial dose of bee venom in his veins. It's for protection, because Dr. J. Murray Kinsman is seriously allergic to stings.

Dr. Kinsman was stung six times by wasps three years ago. About a year ago Dr. Kinsman began taking a recently developed vaccine, designed to protect against stings of wasps, bees and hornets.

Kinsman said the vaccine manufacturer reported 29 cases of allergic persons being stung after administration of the vaccine. Only one showed a mild reaction to the sting.

But Kinsman isn't looking for a wasp to test his immunity.

Says President Will Avoid Part In Next Race

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz.) said today he expects President Eisenhower to avoid "scrupulously" taking any part in the choice of the 1960 Republican presidential nominee.

Goldwater, who has criticized Eisenhower's $71,800,000,000 spending budget, took issue with a contention of Sen. Javits (R-NY) that only a nominee "carrying on the Eisenhower brand of Republicanism" could win for the GOP three years from now.

"I don't think anybody can say this far ahead whether the nominee will be an Eisenhower man," Goldwater said in an interview. "I have never believed Eisenhower would try to name the nominee. In fact, I am convinced he will scrupulously avoid any such action."

Senate Group To Hear New Witnesses

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two alleged prostitutes and a deputy sheriff, George Minielly, go before Senate rackets probes today for questioning in a renewal of public hearings on vice in Portland, Ore. The special Senate committee which summoned them has explored allegations that some high Teamsters Union officials from Seattle, Wash., joined with Portland political figures to "muscle in" on profitable rackets in Portland's underworld.

At particular issue in the quizzing of these new witnesses is an effort by Portland's Mayor Terry D. Schrunk and Oregon's Teamster boss Clyde Crosby, both under indictment, to challenge the any such conference would be fruitful because of the present division in party thinking. "The Republican party is like a big tent," he said. "It has room within it for conservatives and liberals. There is no value in trying to make all Republicans think alike."

Minielly was chief criminal investigator in the Portland sheriff's office when Schrunk was the sheriff for seven years before winning credibility of their chief accuser, racketeer James B. (Big Jim) Elkins.

Schrunk and Crosby attempted in vain a month ago to place in evidence before the committee affidavits from the two women which allegedly named Elkins as a narcotics addict and a figure in prostitution rackets. Elkins has sworn he was a racketeer who refused to have anything to do with prostitution, and the committee says it has no evidence that he is addicted to drugs.

Minielly was chief criminal investigator in the Portland sheriff's office when Schrunk was the sheriff for seven years before winning election last year as mayor. He reportedly is the man who obtained the affidavits from the women.

Reports Man Admits Thefts In Missouri

HARRISBURG, Ill. (AP)—The FBI and Illinois State Police said today Paul E. Brewer, 36, had admitted he and three companions pulled 13 armed robberies in the past year in St. Louis, Kansas City and Wichita.

They identified his companions as:

Eldon E. Brewer, his brother, now held at Evansville, Ind.

John W. Sherrill, under arrest in New Orleans on charges filed in Wichita.

Hugh E. Burthram, under arrest in Los Angeles.

Two Illinois state policemen overhauled Paul Brewer yesterday on U. S. 45 near Eldorado, Ill. He was in a Cape Girardeau, Mo., cab he had engaged for $30 to take him to Evansville. He had given pursuers the slip at Cape Girardeau by abandoning his car and taking to the woods.

The FBI said authorities had been on his trail for five months through Mexico, California and several other Western states.

Five of the 13 robberies were in St. Louis last fall and netted about $15,000 in cash and money orders.

Brewer was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Harry L. McCabe on a federal charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution. He could not post $7,500 bail and was put in the Saline County jail pending transfer to St. Louis.

Officers said the other three will be returned to face charges in connection with the St. Louis robberies.

UN Observer Finds Illegal Mine Field

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N.'s top Palestine truce observer said today he had found an illegal marked minefield in a demilitarized zone on Israel's side of her armistice line with Syria and was "taking steps to have any existing mines removed."

U.S. Col. Byron V. Leary, acting chief of staff of the U.N. truce supervision organization, added, however, he had discovered nothing to support a Syrian charge that Israel was "building military fortifications" in the zone in violation of the 1949 armistice agreement.

He turned down a Syrian request that he ask Israel to take away a 120-foot steel bridge in the same area spanning the Jordan River at the outlet of Lake Huleh north of the Sea of Galilee.

Leary said the bridge had been put up to carry earth-moving equipment to the eastern shore of the lake for use in a 6½-year-old reclamation project. He conceded it could be used for military purposes but said he wasn't entitled to assume it would be.

School Boy Science Wizard Quits TV Quiz With Top Money

NEW YORK (AP)—Schoolboy science wizard Robert Strom reluctantly retired from TV quiz show competition last night with a record $192,000 in winnings.

The 10-year-old Bronx boy walked off with the biggest bankroll won by any contestant on a television quiz program. He broke the old record last week on CBS TV's "The $64,000 Question."

On last night's show Robert's father Albert announced that the family had decided the boy should stop. The father said the TV appearances weren't much of a strain on Robert, but were a terrific strain on his parents.

Asked how he felt about quitting, Robert grinned and replied: "Well—what can you do with parents?"

Colorado Authorities Hold Missouri Man On Bad Check Charge

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP)—Larimer County authorities are holding a Fulton, Mo., man in connection with the passing of more than $1,800 worth of bad checks in Missouri and Colorado.

Sheriff Ray M. Barger said the prisoner, William M. Durham, 26, related in a statement about the checks:

"Full identification was asked of me only in a few cases. Usually my driver's license was the only thing these business people wanted to see. It was just that simple."

Durham said he gave a worthless check for $305 for a used car last month in Loveland, Colo.

The sheriff said hold orders for Durham have come from the sheriffs of Boone, Callaway and Audrain counties in Missouri and the U. S. marshal in Kansas.

The Missouri charges are based on bad checks and the Kansas charge on transportation of a stolen automobile across state lines, Barger said.

Mrs. John G. Lee, prominent clubwoman of Connecticut, is the granddaughter of Hiram Maxim, inventor of the famous Maxim gun. Her father invented the silencer for that noted gun.

Sheath, Full Skirt Dresses

Glamour Styles For Summer Are Modeled in Style Show

Ellis' presented summer fashions on Tuesday evening at the Merchandise Fair sponsored by the Jaycees and there was real glamour in the frocks shown.

Mrs. Charles Thompson was very attractive in a black linen sheath with short white eyelet embroidered jacket which was a demure dress for any occasion but without the jacket and with added jewelry was stunning for after five. She wore, too, an imported white lace over beige taffeta, the six gore skirt falling beautifully to give a modified bouffancy, and a beige velvet belt with streamers to the hem line and matching flower were its only adornments. The third dress modeled by Betty was a pure silk organza cocktail dress of amethyst shade highlighted with delicate embroidery. It had surprise bodice and clever back detailing.

Mrs. Billie Rieger modeled a two-piece cotton print with full skirt with clever high neckline, and full skirt. A washable ready for casual wear. Her second costume was a black pure silk linen town suit which, with the jacket removed became a sheath dress with scoop neckline. Clever pleat treatment gave new loose panel effect. With this she wore a large black milan hat and black accessories.

Mrs. Dorothy Roberts wore a print cotton jacket dress of black, white and brown print. The blouse on jacket buttoned down the front and a narrow patent belt encircled the waist. Underneath was a sheath dress of simple styling and she wore a large milan hat. Her second costume was a sheath dress of black eyelet cotton over white Pima, small collar around a square neckline and black jet buttons down the front closing. She wore a white hat and gloves. Her third outfit was an after five black and white cotton and silk dress shot with lurex for glitter. Without the bolero it became a cocktail dress with tight fitting bodice and full skirt with cummerbund belt adorned with a red rose.

Ann Cornish wore an eyelet embroidered sweater dress. Removing the nylon sweater which had rhinestones and white embroidery, Ann had a practical and pretty sun-dress. She carried a washable white beaded bag. She also modeled a Will 'o the Wisp voile with lace, shirring and delicate cording. She wore a black milan hat trimmed with velvet and black bag and gloves.

Mrs. W. W. Cecil modeled a blue mesh dress with rhinestone trimmed lace medallions. She wore a white milan hat encircled with pastel fruit and long gloves. Her second costume was black chiffon for dressy occasions with a series of tucks. A companion slip eliminates lingerie worries. Her hat was a milan breton of black underlined with gray.

Miss Anne Sagar wore a town suit with an attractive jacket of small diagonal design, styled with patch pockets and velvet collar to cover a flattering sheath dress. A red rose at the waist matched the lining of the jacket. She wore a black milan hat and white gloves.

Miss Marge Cummins wore an unusual cotton in Earth crease resistant cotton and ric-rac treatment on both blouse and skirt. She also modeled a print cotton dress with scoop neck adorned with glittering rhinestones and pearls. The metallic gold and grey print was unusual in the full circle skirt.

Nancy Pace wore a torso dress, the long slim bodice buttoned down the back and all of a sudden a bouffant skirt for feminine charm. She wore a white floral hat and carried a white beaded bag. Nancy also modeled a pink dacron with pleated skirt of blocks of pastel shades. The pleats will not rumple.

Verna Schults wore a white sheath pure Irish linen dress topped by a blue orlon sweater which was banded with white grosgrain ribbon and matching blue trim for casual wear. She also modeled a black and white eyelet cotton shirtmaker dress styled with full skirt and three-quarter sleeves. It has its own black cotton petticoat and the black satin cummerbund with small bouquet enhanced the small waistline.

Miss Dorothy Pendleton was narrator for the show and Mrs. Rodney Shepherd played the organ from Shaw's Music Store.

Nurse Homes Voluntarily Close Doors

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Dr. H. M. Hardwicke announced today 30 nursing homes have closed voluntarily because they couldn't comply with Missouri's new fire safety standards.

Dr. Hardwicke, acting state health director, told Gov. James T. Blair 48 nursing homes had been inspected for fire safety by April 19 and the remaining 184 homes known to exist will be checked by May 3.

The homes that closed housed 408 persons. Dr. Hardwicke said most of them were small places in rural areas, many heated by wood-burning stoves. The state has not yet ordered any homes to close. They will first be given a chance to meet the new standards.

Not a single nursing home inspected so far met the new fire safety code completely. Dr. Hardwicke said the most common failure was the absence of a sprinkler or an automatic alarm system.

The second most prevalent lack was inadequate insulation of the boiler or furnace room and the third commonest was lack of certified safe wiring.

The stepped up inspection program was ordered by the governor under a new law that was rushed through after the disastrous Warrenton nursing home fire Feb. 17 which claimed 72 lives.

Mining Firm's Shutdown May Effect Economy

MIAMI, Okla. (AP)—The Eagle-Picher Lead and Zinc Mining Co.'s announcement it is closing all mine and mill production Monday, forcing at least 1,400 persons out of work, came as a shock to those affected.

Some expressed belief the economy of the area would be hurt. O. A. Rockwell, company vice president and general manager, said yesterday the firm was compelled to take the drastic action because of conditions in the domestic zinc industry. He said the industry is producing at a greater pace than its products can be consumed.

Affected are company plants in the tri-state area of Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri, and at Henryetta, Okla. Some 500 are employed by the company in the triangle sector and 600 at its giant smelter at Henryetta. Another 300 working for 15 smaller companies in this area are expected to be laid off because of the Eagle-Picher shutdown. Those mines ship ore to the central mill in Ottawa County for processing.

French composer Paul Paray's Mass commemorating the 500th anniversary of the death of Joan of Arc was given its world premiere in 1931 at the cathedral in the Rouen, not far from the inquisitorial court where she was tried for heresy.

"Does Jesus Care" accompanied by Mrs. Clyde Waters at the organ. Palbearers were Floyd McFarland, Clyde Waters, C. N. Farley, Harry Mosby, Charles Hieronymus and L. A. Duff.

Burial was in the Syracuse Cemetery.

The body was at the Ewing Funeral Home until the hour of the service.

Robert Lee Bell Sr. Services

Funeral services for Robert Lee Bell Sr., who died Monday at Bothwell Hospital, will be at 2 p.m. Thursday at Jones Holy Temple, Elder B. Jones to officiate. Mrs. Marjorie Johnson will sing "Last Mile of the Way," accompanied by Mrs. Gladys Gatewood at the piano.

Palbearers will be Melvin Huston, Charles McFerrin, James Allen, J. D. Quantrell, Newton Foster and Gus Crews Jr.

The body will be taken from the Ferguson Funeral Home to the home of his mother, Mrs. Penelope Bell, 218 West Pettis, at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Burial will be in Crown Hill Annex Cemetery.

Stresses 'How To'

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, author and pastor of the Marble Collegiate Church, says his aim has been "to stress the 'how to' techniques of religion as much as the 'what for' objectives."

"To those earnest critics who choose to concentrate more exclusively on the theological speculations on the judgment of God or the morality of man, I say 'Bless you, your good works are needed,'" Dr. Peale told a news conference on the publication of his new book, "Stay Alive All Your Life."

Explosion Wrecks Building and Rocks Area Near Joplin

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP)—An explosion wrecked a building at the Atlas Powder Co. plant five miles east of Joplin last night and rocked a wide area. No one was injured.

C. A. Huffman, production superintendent, said three workers near the building raced 300 yards and dived to safety behind a bunker after one of them saw a small flash fire in the building.

The structure was the No. 3 jell cartridge house in which highly explosive jelly-like substance is loaded into cylinders by machinery.

While the police were getting a report Patrol Car 5 officers asked for a license check and it was his car, parked on Grand just west of Swift and Co. at 11:20 p.m.

Dale Harvey, Lamonte, reported to the police that while attending a meeting at the Bothwell Hotel Tuesday, someone stole two Dodge hub caps off of his Ford car.

A window at the J and D Grill on South Limit was found open by the police at 5:55 a.m. Screen was over the window and not tampered with.

Thieves took between $200 and $300 from the Deep Rock Service Station on West U.S. Highway 50 sometime between 9:15 and 9:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The thieves were believed to be two men who were in the station about that time. The money was taken from a R. C. Allen cash register while the attendant was out of the station office.

Deputy Sheriff George Brown and the State Highway Patrol was notified and made an investigation.

'Optimism Must Be Sold'

Official Gives Challenge In Talk to Optimist Club

Alden Holm, Omaha, Neb., governor of the 10th District, Optimist International, was the speaker at the Optimist Club meeting Tuesday at Bothwell Hotel at which time he gave members of the local club a challenge. Optimism must be sold, he said, and the Optimist Club has a terrific package to sell.

In 1943, the speaker said, a group of men felt that the world needed a form of optimism and that the seed should be sown. At the 1950 convention in Chicago it was found that optimism grew the rough sharing. In order to have a good Optimist Club, he went on to say, there must be members, the first thing needed is manpower. The next thing is attendance, then to do something unselfish and that is boys work, fourth you must share Optimism by giving it to another community and fifth, life membership.

The 10th district is tops in Optimist International, Mr. Holm said, it has received the award as the outstanding district of Optimist International.

At the turn of the century, the speaker pointed out the country was mostly agricultural and industry has grown up all over the country since that time. At that time there were no civic clubs, no labor unions and many things that now exist had not been known of. With the growth of industry a man named Harris in 1905 felt the need of men joining together to talk over like problems so he founded the Rotary Club which was to rotate from one business to the other. That was the first civic club and now there are 30,000 civic clubs where men of all ages, all religions, get together in fellowship.

The name Optimist, he said, is magic. It is a big idea and means much to the youth. God built the oyster, Mr. Holm said, and made it with a shell at the bottom of the ocean. When it needs food it just opens its shell and the food comes in. But God also made the eagle not the oyster that became the emblem of America. Optimism all the way through has been a motivating force for achievement. Oil has burned to bring about the many inventions, creations of man, but always optimism was the force that kept them working for the achievement. It is present around us, he said, do something about it. We should be interested in where we are going.

The speaker was introduced by Dr. H. O. Wilbur, Program chairman for the day was Charles Hurd.

The meeting was presided over by Dr. C. J. Blach, president.

Invocation was by Dr. K. L. Holdren. Leading the singing was Charles Hanna with Miss Lillian Fox at the piano.

Guests introduced were George Maggio, Bill Reed, Everett Edwards and Jack Faber.

Upside-down window shade lends privacy to family dining table in this provincial kitchen. View of sky and trees is unmarred.

Shades and Curtains Help

Control The Unpleasant View Your Window Presents

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

The charming mind's-eye picture of a sun-flooded room with windows overlooking a private garden in springtime often vanishes when we look at the hard reality of our own homes.

As houses crowd closer together, the vista often includes an excellent view of the neighbor's garage and trash cans. And, conversely, the neighbors can look in to see how our private family life is doing.

Sometimes windows are never flooded with anything more cheerful than north light. Sometimes they are placed so the sun seems to burn through the whole house during summer months.

In window treatments, problems of light, air and privacy deserve as much consideration as hand-some fabrics.

The variety of sizes and colors in window shades and venetian blinds offers an easy solution for windows of many types.

One novel treatment devised by Ruth Lee, Chicago home furnishings consultant, uses window shades upside down to combine privacy with a partial view of leafy trees and blue skies.

In this house, the small kitchen and breakfast nook were remodeled to provide a larger room decorated in provincial style. But the windows near the family dining table overlook the neighbor's service yard.

The shades are installed upside down with the roller across the sill. Side pulleys clip to the edge of the shade, hold it in position and enable the homemaker to raise or lower it to any desired height. The pulleys are mounted under the cornice at the top of the window. These translucent window shades

ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—On June 3, 1940, Mrs. Mae Bullock of Danielsville, Ga., mailed a post card to her cousin, Mrs. Ruby Nelms of Athens.

Mrs. Nelms received the card recently and, since Danielsville is 17 miles from Athens, has calculated that the mail went through at a rate of approximately one mile a year.

come in standard or custom colors to fit the decor. Draw curtains in a provincial-patterned chintz frame the shades, covering the pulleys. Curtains match the wallpaper.

The rather small window is further dramatized by the use of picture-patterned paper. On each side of the window is hung a strip of provincial-background paper overlaid with fake framed prints, copies of pages from a French cookbook. The plain provincial pattern is used for the rest of the room.

Another approach to the problem is suggested by the use of sheer glass, net or lace curtains. Living on a corner, I have found that sheer curtains filter the view and provide some daylight privacy while still permitting a feeling of openness.

Some of the lace-patterned curtains are lovely enough to be used solo, without draw draperies. At night, shades or blinds can provide privacy.

If very strong sunlight is a problem or if maximum privacy is desired, as in a bathroom, opaque window shades are an inexpensive room darkener. These, too, come in white or color, plain or fringed.

Keeping Alders On Job

Some older persons adjust and some do not to retirement from fields of employment. Retirement plans and social security payments help ease the burden of finances, but forced inactivity still does not suit many workers who still retain their skills.

In fact there are many thousands of elders in employment who are pace setters for younger workers.

Among some employers there has been a growing tendency to channel out of their employment those 65 or over, and even as low as 60. Perhaps this trend might be stemmed if there was some way to mollify the thinking of employers that a man at 65 is through.

Up in Ontario, Canada, a tax exemption or subsidy plan to employers of persons 65 years of age and over has been suggested by the Deputy Minister of Public Welfare, James S. Band, as one way to solve the increasing burden of caring for elderly persons.

Population statistics in the United States as well as Ontario point to a progressive increase in the percentage of elderly persons. This indicates that before long it will be necessary to adopt radical measures to cope with the resulting economic problems, and some may have to deal with utilizing the skills and experience of those who are still capable of working.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

May Dump Flexible Farm Price Supports

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower and Secretary Benson have a new farm program about ready to spring on the farmers. It will probably mean the end of all farm price supports.

Meeting with Republican leaders in Congress last week, the President gave a preview of the plan. He described the present farm price support program as a vicious circle. When crop surpluses are disposed of abroad, he pointed out, the law required that domestic price supports increase.

"This means that farmers increase their production and we have more surpluses," said the President. "If our present laws are inadequate to deal with this situation, then they ought to be changed. We are not wedded to any program. If it isn't working."

Secretary Benson, who attended the meeting, agreed that his flexible program hadn't worked out as well as he had hoped, but he contended that this was partly because of "mandatory provisions" still in the law, establishing 75 per cent minimums for price supports on basic crops — corn, wheat, cotton, rice and peanuts. An over-all review of the crop price and surplus situation would be made with an eye to corrective legislation, Benson reported. Farm organizations would be consulted. However, he emphasized that Congress should assume a great part of the responsibility. He didn't want to be left carrying the ball alone, declared the secretary of agriculture.

Big Farmers Profit
Another objection raised by Eisenhower was the high cost to the taxpayers of maintaining the current Benson program, as reflected by the Agriculture Department's budget of $5,300,000,000. In this connection, Congressional leaders reported that some farm Senators felt that the cost of sending surplus farm goods abroad should be charged to the foreign aid program, not the farm program.

Eisenhower said he was opposed to this, pointing out that farmers "get the benefit of the surplus disposal program."

The President also contended that the bulk of the benefits under the present program were going to big farmers, and that "the small farmer isn't getting his rightful share." One reason for this, it was brought out, was that big farmers could make a living out of Benson's soil bank program, even if they take a large part of their soil out of production — something little farmers cannot afford to do.

Note 1: Farm organizations report that big farmers and "absentee" city farmers are engaged in a wave of land buying, then putting these acres into the soil bank.

Note 2: It wasn't mentioned at the White House meeting, but some GOP politicians say they're tired of appeasing the farm belt, believe it's better to let farm prices drop and get political credit with consumers and housewives for lower prices.

Guest Editorial—

LIGHT (Braille Institute Of America, Inc.): The Cellophane Strip Hoax — Just the other day we visited a nearby store that had a box on the counter to collect the cellophane strips that are part of more cigarette packages. If you collected so many — ten thousand is one figure — and turned them in, they would pay for a blind man's guide dog.

The rumor doesn't mention where the strips are to be sent. Braille Institute has had them delivered by people of good will on many occasions. One large collection was donated by a member of the Armed Forces who represented an overseas unit that had saved the strips for the whole time on foreign station.

This is a cruel hoax. The Seeing Eye, Morristown, New Jersey, makes a continuing effort to stamp out the rumor which, they say, crops up periodically and is now spreading with alarming rapidity throughout the country. Henry A. Colgate, president of the organization, says, "Seeing Eye dogs cannot be obtained through the collection of match folder covers, of cellophane strips from cigarette packages, or of any other article. Such collections can only result in disappointment to blind people and their friends who save these articles."

The Ontario official points out that it is an unwise and discriminatory process to remove so many able-bodied older persons from opportunities to continue a useful contribution to national economy.

Forcing persons into retirement or just refusing to hire them, as is the case in many instances, at an arbitrary age limit has and is creating a serious problem.

Estimates indicate that the majority of today's population will live 20 years longer than their grandparents. By 1970 persons 65 years of age and over will constitute 10 per cent of the population.

There is no denying that a great percentage of older persons, able-bodied and willing to work, suffer greatly from dejection aside from financial limitations when advised that their services and skills are no longer required.

Perhaps fewer older persons would be laid off if employers were granted a tax exemption or subsidy which would cost much less than adding to the overwhelmingly expensive of government welfare support.

Perhaps the time is not yet ripe for this revolutionary plan in the United States. Neither, it seems, is Ontario ready for it. Minister Band's proposal was tabled in the Legislature recently.

Inside Jordan

Here is more of the inside story on why King Hussein suddenly got up enough nerve to fire his pro-Communist Premier and Army Chief.

King Saud of Saudi Arabia telephoned the 22-year-old King, pledging that his troops would rush to the latter's aid in case of any fighting. He told King Hussein that he could consider himself Commander-in-Chief of the 3,000 Saudi troops already stationed in Jordan and that they would fight to the death for him.

This dramatic phone call gave Hussein the courage he needed to crack down on pro-Russian leaders and take over as the real boss of Jordan. So it looks as if Ike's entertainment of King Saud has begun to pay off.

Diplomatic Pouch

Prime Minister Nkrumah of the new nation of Ghana has asked President Eisenhower to name a white man instead of a negro as American Ambassador. Nkrumah wants a top-flight career diplomat sent to his country because he believes a white Ambassador's recommendations would pack more weight than those of an American negro politician. The man Ike will probably name is Career Officer Wilson Flake . . . Moscow may be facing another Hungary — this time in the Baltic. Anti-Russian riots are sweeping the tiny Baltic states of Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania. Moscow has moved in troops and police. Several hundred patriots have been arrested . . . Marshal Tito, who bragged only six months ago he no longer needed American military aid, is now begging for American jet fighters. Tito says the picture has changed because Russia is again threatening him . . . Special U. S. Ambassador Richards has decided he will not visit Egypt to explain the new Eisenhower doctrine even if Dictator Nasser does invite him. Richards had been angling for an invitation to Cairo ever since he began his Middle East tour, but now that Egypt has ignored his overtures he's so mad that he's cabled the State Department he won't go even if invited . . . Egyptian agents are stirring up the Jordan populace against new Prime Minister Hussein Khalidi on the charge that he is an American puppet and that his son is an American citizen. (It's true that his son, Hatem Khalidi, is an American citizen, working for a Louisiana oil company.) . . . The Mideast spotlight will soon move to Morocco, where the U. S. is involved in a buildup campaign for Sultan Mohammed as a forceful counterpart for Nasser influence in Africa. This isn't making France too happy. Premier Mollet is privately furious. Latest move: The U. S. Air Force bypassed the French last week and opened direct negotiations with Mohammed for a base in Morocco.

Another objection raised by Eisenhower was the high cost to the taxpayers of maintaining the current Benson program, as reflected by the Agriculture Department's budget of $5,300,000,000. In this connection, Congressional leaders reported that some farm Senators felt that the cost of sending surplus farm goods abroad should be charged to the foreign aid program, not the farm program.

The recent discussions on the National Guard seems to be having satisfactory results. The Defense Department reported about 200 volunteers per month have signed up for the six month reserve program training. The number was more than half that of the total recruited in all the previous six months.

The Army and the National Guard recently reached a compromise on the Army's insistence that Guard recruits between 17 and 18½ years old be compelled to take six months' training. This program will not take effect until 1958. However, the Defense Department's figures indicate that 9,574 out of the enlistees in the Army National Guard and the Air National Guard either had the required six months training or were willing to take it.

Major General Edgar C. Erickson, chief of the National Guard Bureau, said "It looks like a good start to meet the requirements of the Defense Department."

No Action Seen By UN Group On Suez

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON — President Nasser, the high-handed Egyptian who took over the Suez Canal and kept it, has beaten the United States, Britain and France down to frying size.

They wanted him to agree to international control of the canal. From all that is known he hasn't budged an inch from his original position when he seized the canal last July 26.

"This is my canal and I'm going to run it my way, whether you like it or not."

The American ambassador in Cairo has talked with Nasser for weeks without visible results. Secretary of State Dulles yesterday said this country, possibly this week, will report to the United Nations on its dealings with the Egyptian.

This can hardly be more than a face-saving device. So long as they keep talking about their difficulties this country and its two big allies, Britain and France, can hope to delay admitting he has them backed against a wall.

They can't hope for action in the U.N. Security Council against Nasser. Soviet Russia, backing Nasser all the way, sits on the council and can veto anything the Allies propose.

Something else Dulles said also showed this country is backing down. When the canal was reopened to traffic early this month, the American government discouraged American flagships from using it.

They didn't. If this was intended to put pressure on Nasser by depriving him of that much revenue, it apparently didn't work. Yesterday Dulles said the government has no objections to these ships using the canal.

There is nothing in sight the three allies can do to make Nasser bend. Britain and France invaded him, and had him on the ropes, but this country called off the attack and Nasser came back strong, yielding nothing, as if nothing happened.

Britain and France won't try another attack soon. And the United States won't attack.

Before Nasser grabbed the canal in July it was operated — under an international agreement of 1888 — by a privately owned international company which collected the tolls from the ships passing through.

Last March, just before the canal was finally cleared of the ships sunk during the autumn invasion, Nasser announced Egypt would collect the tolls.

This was after the United States, Britain and France proposed that the tolls should be paid half to Egypt and half to some international financial agency which would hold them until there was some final agreement on who owned what and who owed what to whom.

Dr. Jordan Says

Uncommon Inflammation Of Arteries Believed Allergy

Because the last 50 years has brought such remarkable advances in the prevention and treatment of so many diseases, it is often easy to lose sight of the vast number of both common and rare disorders for which scientific medicine has not yet found the answer.

Thus it is interesting and worth while to discuss these from time to time, so I shall take the occasion to try to say something about Mrs. C. R.'s request to discuss periarthritis nodosa, which she says afflicts one of her relatives.

This is one of the less common disorders. It is a peculiar kind of allergic disorder. The tissues are probably inflamed as the result of hypersensitivity to bacterial agents or to other substances, including certain drugs. It may occur at almost any age but seems to be somewhat more common in the male sex.

Periarthritis nodosa is often a difficult thing to diagnose because the symptoms are so variable.

In a good many, there is long-lasting fever. However, unusual symptoms in the abdomen and signs of kidney disease, neuritis, muscular inflammation and other unrelated and peculiar signs often are present and serve to make it difficult to pinpoint the diagnosis or source of the trouble.

Furthermore, there is no simple or single laboratory test which makes the diagnosis definite. Consequently, it is probable that a considerable number of people with the disease escape diagnosis.

The question of prevention and treatment is equally difficult. It seems impossible to anticipate who may become afflicted and indeed how this may occur. At the present time preventive measures are virtually non-existent.

Treatment, too, is less than satisfactory. Of course if a germ infection can be identified, or if some other allergic factor can be picked out and eliminated, it is all to the good.

Some good results are obtained by treating the symptoms, whatever they may be, and in some cases ACTH or cortisone appear to be of value. However, in general one must say that periarthritis nodosa, like its relatives, is a fertile field for medical research. The solution is not yet in sight.

Ruth Millett Says

It's Wife's Job to Make Marriage Companionable

When a husband and wife are companionable it is usually because the wife is willing to make the effort to be companionable.

Perhaps a husband should make as great an effort to share the wife's interests as she does to share his, but he usually doesn't.

Both men and women want companionship in marriage. But a man's idea of companionship is having a wife who will be interested in the same things he is.

It doesn't occur to most men that companionship could be a mutual sharing of interests — that if a wife shares her husband's interests he should share hers.

Every bride should realize from the start of her marriage that the responsibility for the couple's being companionable through the years is largely up to her.

That means she may have to learn to hunt and fish, even though she has never held a rod and reel or a gun in her hands.

Or it may be she will have to get interested in local politics or golf or photography. She may even find that she is married to a man whose interests change frequently and, in order to stay companionable with him, her interests will have to change just as often.

But though it may take a little effort, a lot of learning and some inconvenience, it always pays off for a woman to make herself her husband's companion.

It not only keeps the couple close through the years, but usually makes a woman a more interesting person.

Left to their own devices, many women are content to make home and family their only interests. Keeping up with a husband's interests broadens the world for women. They never lose it.

So, though married companionship is usually achieved through the wife's efforts, both husband and wife benefit by the one-sided arrangement.

Any wife who says to herself, "If he won't try to share my interests why should I bother to share his," is making a big mistake.

Cheap Mail Rates Shore Post Office Deep In Red

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — It took a "businessman's administration" to give the U. S. postal service its only "lost weekend" in history.

But restoration by Congress of the 40-odd millions of dollars to run the Post Office Dept. full time from now to next June 30 by no means solves the problem for the coming fiscal year.

Nor should anyone get the idea that restoration of this money will enable the PO to break even this year. It will show an estimated deficit of over half a billion dollars. That is, postal receipts from the sale of stamps will lack that much of paying PO costs.

For next year this deficit will be 650 million dollars. The principal reason is that 473 million dollars' worth of new costs are being piled on the postal service. This is done by act of Congress — without any increase in postal receipts.

Pay increases of 207 million will go into effect. Fringe benefits will add another 59 million. Government contributions to pension funds will take 132 million more. Railway mail pay will go up 28 million. And new equipment to provide more service for a growing population and expanding economy will cost 47 million.

These are more beginning figures. If railroads get another increase for hauling mail and if pending pay and fringe benefit increases are approved next year's deficit could be 100 million dollars more, or still more.

The only solution for this situation which Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield has come up with is to raise postal rates to make the PO Dept. self-sustaining. He has been recommending this for four years, as his predecessors did before him.

Congress has always refused to buy this line. The idea that the postal service should be subsidized so as to provide the people with cheap mail rates has taken a firm hold.

The only good that can come out of the curtailed postal service snafu, therefore, is that it may make Congress and the public realize that mail rates must be increased over the long haul, to permit the PO to break even and cut budget deficits.

Legislation is now before Congress to increase first, second and third class mail rates to bring in an estimated 525 million dollars a year. But even this would leave the PO 125 million dollars in the red.

Since the big hullabaloo over the weekend curtailment of service, there has been considerable guff put out about how much better western European postal services are than our service. The contention is that the Europeans get more deliveries per day and that their services pay their own way.

The facts of this situation are that in half a dozen western European countries — Belgium, France, Germany, Norway, Sweden and Switzerland — letter mail costs from 4.2 to 4.8 cents. This is nearly 50 per cent more than the U. S. letter mail rate.

These countries have smaller areas to serve and shorter distances to haul their mail than in the United States. Their sizes range from Belgium's 12,000 square miles to France's 212,000. The U. S. with over three million square miles, is nearly 15 times larger than France.

What really shoots up U. S. postal costs, however, is the difference in pay scales for postal employees. European letter carriers get from $1,200 a year in Germany to a little over $1,800 in Sweden and Switzerland.

The average U. S. mailman gets $4,400 a year. This is base pay. It does not cover uniform allowance, 13 to 26 days leave a year, 13 days cumulative sick leave a year and a pension.

A U. S. postman can retire at age 60 after 15 years' service, or after five years if disabled. A mailman retiring at 60 after 30 years' service gets $2,300 a year pension — more than the European postman gets for working.

Since 1945, all U. S. postal costs have gone up from 110 to 266 per cent, for a total cost of 1.86 billion dollars. In this period postal rates have been raised to bring in additional revenues of only 275 million dollars.

It's no way to run a business.

THE GROCERIES had been sacked and the man reached into the pocket of his coat to get his checkbook while the grocery clerk waited. The checkbook wasn't there. It wasn't in any of his pockets and he went through them several times. He must have left it at home, but he was certain it was in that coat pocket where he had first looked. He was thankful he had enough money with him to pay for the groceries and he went on home and looked for the checkbook. It didn't seem to be at home either. He looked everywhere he could think of. Then he called his office and asked one of the fellows to look around there for it. He thought maybe he had dropped it out of his pocket at the office. A search went on over the office, but it wasn't there, either.

Pretty well disturbed over losing the checkbook, he finally glanced down and noticed that he had on his brown suit. Up he got out of his chair and rushed to his closet. There in the pocket of his gray suit was the checkbook.—H.L.

Flowers for Wedding Should Get Careful Consideration

Flowers for the wedding are a problem. Prospective brides should plan ahead to avoid confusion and get the best results.

By HELEN HENNESSY

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The well-planned wedding is the one that is most certain to run smoothly. And the smart bride-to-be will make sure that all the arrangements are made well in advance of her wedding day.

The task quite often put off till the last minute, to give precedence to more time-consuming chores, is ordering the floral arrangements. This is a mistake, for flowers add that important finishing touch to the wedding itself, and should be given careful consideration.

If the bride-to-be is confused as to the financial responsibility for the flowers, she will be quite correct in having her family pay for her mother's corsage and the bridesmaid's flowers. The groom takes care of his mother and the boutonnières for the men of the wedding party.

It is, however, becoming more and more customary for the groom to send the bride her bouquet.

If the budget is tight, remember that flowers in season are a good deal less expensive than those that are not, and when prettily arranged, just as lovely. If the florist is told immediately the budget he has, he will be better able to do his job to satisfaction.

For the formal bride, traditional white bouquets are now being designed with touches of light pink or pale blue, especially if her wedding gown is a pastel tint or an off-white.

The cascade form is most popular, since it is a good balance for a gown with a long train. The price for an arrangement of this type in gladioli or roses can start as low as $7.50. On the other hand, the same design in orchids or lily-of-the-valley would be much more expensive.

There is more leeway for the girl who will have a semi-formal wedding. A wider variety of flowers can be used, and a good deal more color. Although orchids are still favorites, roses, daisies, anemones and gardenias are gaining in popularity.

The type of bouquet she will carry should be determined by the bride's height and the style of her dress. For a ballet-length dress a round, old-fashioned bouquet with a center of roses and clusters of carnations, delphiniums and daisies is an excellent choice.

If the bride's gown is full-skirted and tight-waisted, a semi-crescent or crescent bouquet should be chosen. For a sheath-like gown, a very modern stylized arrangement is suitable.

The informal bride, who will wear a suit or street-length dress, will probably want a corsage. Spray orchids or carnations are proper, but daisies are coming into their own, and are charming. A daisy corsage might cost as little as $4.50.

A lot of thinking should go into selecting flowers for the bridal party, and if the proper time and thought are given to this phase of the wedding plans, the result will be rewarding.

Hold Contest In Oratory At School

Cleo Sutherland of the seventh grade, Horace Mann School, and Jeffrey Kahrs of the sixth grade were the winners in the oration contest sponsored by the Modern Woodmen of America. Each student could choose his own subject from the general theme, "History Making Headlines."

Second place winners were Dale Herrick, seventh grade, and Bill Hurt, sixth grade. Gold and silver trophies suitably engraved were presented to the winners by W. G. Parsons, representing the Modern Woodmen of America.

A permanent trophy presented to the school will be inscribed with the names of this year's winners.

Other high ranking contestants were: Seventh grade, Spencer Bridges, Carol Hilgedick, Mimi Silverman, Lois Kirby, Richard Ashley, and Sidney Newton; sixth grade, Rodney Hanna, Craig Jones, and Dianne Shoemaker and fifth grade, Barbara Buford, Dianne Drenon, Sandy Stanfield, Cynthia Traugher, and Jackie Allen. Each of these contestants was presented a gold pin.

Parsons thanked Mrs. F. W. Johnson, the seventh grade teacher, for her cooperation and direction of the competition. Assisting Mrs. Johnson in judging the contest were George R. Thompson, principal of Horace Mann School, and Mrs. C. H. Williams, fifth grade teacher. The contest was sponsored by the Modern Woodmen of America, and was open to any students in Grades 5, 6 and 7 who cared to participate.

Ex-Comedy King Makes Big Return With His Life Story

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "I have no sore spots," said Buster Keaton, who spent his rainy day money while the sun was still shining.

The deadpan comedian went up like a rocket, then down like an anchor into the waters of oblivion, where the solitary has-beens swim all alone with their dim memories.

But at 61 Buster has bobbed to the surface. He's chipper and back in the chips. He bought a ranch home in San Fernando Valley with $50,000 Paramount Pictures gave him for the rights to "The Buster Keaton Story," and television magnates are waving lettuce at him again.

Keaton, who was given the nickname "Buster" at the age of 6 months by Harry Houdini, was born offstage during a one-night stand made by his vaudeville parents in Piqua, Kan. He was a top performer in 1917 when he gave up a $350-a-week contract with the Shuberts to accept Fatty Arbuckle's invitation to work with him in Hollywood.

"I didn't even bother to ask what the salary was," said Keaton, a short stocky man easier to jump over than to run around.

"It wasn't until payday I found out it was $40 a week. "But I didn't mind. It was fun. The fun didn't go out of it until making movies became an expensive business."

Keaton loves to recall the free-wheeling era when he, Charlie Chaplin and Harold Lloyd were the comedy kings of their generation.

"My salary went from $1,000 a week to $3,500 a week," he said. "In time I had my own studio, and I built a $350,000 house in Beverly Hills. We used to have weekend poker parties where a man would win or lose $50,000 in an evening and either way didn't worry. He could always make another picture."

After his plummet from fame, Keaton became a writer, and outlined comedy routines for Red Skelton and other comedians of a newer day. Then came the years when there were more memories than money, and friendly hand-outs were all he had to go on.

A year and a half ago Keaton lay in a hospital, near death from a ruptured throat vein, when he received the offer for his life story.

"Four days later I was out doing prat falls on a TV show," he said, his features relaxing into a rare smile.

Here's how he rates the top entertainers he has known in his lifetime:

"I have my old pets. Danny Kaye is perhaps the best all-around comedian alive today, but the guy I laughed at most was the original Joe Jackson, the tramp bicyclist.

"The greatest all-around song-and-dance man was George M. Cohan, and the greatest all-around performer was Fred Stone.

"Women? Lucille Ball is the funniest girl in the business today, but the No. 1 light comedienne of all time was Marie Dressler. No one could touch her."

Missouri Can Show You ...

OLD MERAMEC IRON WORKS, St. James

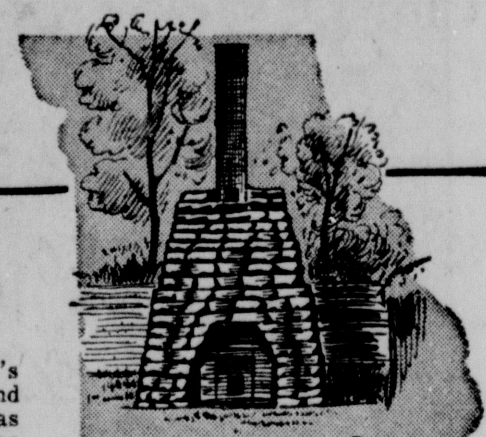

Learning of Missouri's iron deposits from a band of Shawnee Indians, Thomas James came to Meramec Springs in 1826 and, with Samuel Massey, opened this iron works which made cannon shot and gunboat armor during the Civil War.

Lime for flux, wood for charcoal, and water for power, all came from the immediate area. Giving birth to its own village, the iron works enjoyed 65 years of prosperity.

Still standing is one of the old open hearth furnaces, a monumental pyramid of cut stone, and a popular tourist attraction.

Missouri can show you a rich and fascinating history in many fields. Since 1810, for instance, Brewing has been an important Missouri industry — and today "Beer Belongs" throughout the state. First Warm, Muggy Weather Prevails In Some Parts of US

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Warm and muggy weather, the first of the season in many areas, prevailed in the central and southern plains and in most sections east of the Mississippi River today.

Showers and thunderstorms also hit broad areas in the summerlike air.

The warm, moist air from the Gulf of Mexico kept temperatures in the 60s during the night as far north as southern New England. High humidity was reported in most areas east of the Mississippi. Temperatures were 5 to 15 degrees higher than yesterday morning in the upper Great Lakes region and in the middle and north Atlantic coastal areas.

Northerly winds kept northern New England cool and comfortable. There also was minor cooling in the northern Rockies and western parts of the Northern Plains states as a weak storm center moved northward into Canada.

Rainfall in most of the warm belt was light.

CAB Says Airline Crews Should Receive Training in Landings

WASHINGTON — The Civil Aeronautics Board said today that 104 persons have been killed, and 1,540 aircraft occupants exposed to injury, in 75 "undershoot" airliner accidents in the past 10 years.

An undershoot accident is one in which a plane lands short of the runway, or collides with objects or the ground during a landing approach.

The board said its study of the 10-year period—1946 through 1955—disclosed no general pattern, although 45 per cent of them occurred either while the airliners were flying on instruments or under weather conditions normally requiring instrument approach techniques.

"This points to the need for emphasis on crew training in this critical operational phase, as well as for constant attention to improving methods and facilities utilized for this purpose," the CAB said.

The deaths in the 75 accidents included 80 crew members, 216 passengers, and eight persons killed on the ground.

Old Hands May Make Strong Fight For Batting Titles

The Associated Press

The kids who have had charge of the batting titles for the past three seasons better get a hustle on. A couple of old hands, Stan Musial and Ted Williams, look back in business as the two best hitters baseball has known in the past 15 years.

Musial, 36, already has declared he's going to pace himself this time to ward off any late-season weariness while shooting for his seventh National League bat title with the St. Louis Cardinals. He's already having one of his best springs ever, batting a crisp .500 with 12-for-24.

Williams, 37, has termed this a make-or-break year ("If I don't hit .330, hit between 25 and 30 home runs and knock in 100 runs I'll know the handwriting is on the wall") and as of today tops the American League with a .423 average.

Musial managed just a single in three at-bats last night as the Cardinals lost 6-4 to Cincinnati in 10 innings.

Williams, however, slugged his 42nd major league home run and his 2,200th hit while driving in two runs to pack away a 3-1 victory for the Boston Red Sox over Baltimore.

Elsewhere in the National yesterday, the Chicago Cubs put an end to Milwaukee's "unbeaten" nonsense, with Cal Neeman's first major league home run beating the Braves 3-2 in 10 innings. Rookie Pete Burnside permitted Pittsburgh just three singles for a 1-0 New York Giants victory in the only other game scheduled.

In the American, Roy Sievers continued his hefty home hitting for Washington, unloading a two-run, two-out home run in the ninth as the Senators defeated the New York Yankees 3-1. Cleveland and

American Assn. Has Rare Jam At Top Ranks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Seldom except in early season do they manage a traffic jam like the one at the top of the American Assn. standings.

Charleston, which has been leading the pack, dropped a double-header to St. Paul 3-0 and 6-4, last night and tumbled into third place.

Denver, which had occupied the third run, belted Indianapolis, 7-4, and soared above the percentages with a 3-1 won-lost mark—but still trailed the Saints half a length in the games behind column, along with Charleston. St. Paul padded its record to 5-2 and its sweep left the Senators 5-3.

Wichita's erstwhile runners bowed to Omaha, 3-2, and slipped to fourth on three victories in five starts. Minneapolis trimmed Louisville, 4-3, and retained a fifth-place tie with Omaha at .500 in eight games.

Southpaw Chet Nichols and reliever Phil Paine yielded only seven Omaha hits at Wichita, but one was a decisive two-run homer by Don Lassetter in the sixth inning. Kelson Russell, another lefty, set the Braves down with six base knocks and became the first pitcher to hurl a full game for the Cardinals this season.

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP)—"Music is like smells," says Bruno Zirato Jr. "It stirs memories. They may be happy or unhappy memories, but listeners of the hour long weekly the association is profound." That, he believes, is one reason why there is such widespread interest in standard numbers from happy or unhappy memories, but listeners of the hour long weekly radio program which he directs, Percy Faith's The Best in Music (CBS radio, Sunday afternoons). Another reason, Zirato believes, is that the vast majority of radio listeners "get all the currently popular music they can swallow from the numerous disc jockey programs. They turn to us for standard music that they seldom find elsewhere on the air."

He bases his beliefs on a great flood of mail which recently poured in to The Best in Music after the program asked listeners what they would like to hear when Percy Faith and his orchestra celebrate their 100th consecutive weekly broadcast next Sunday afternoon.

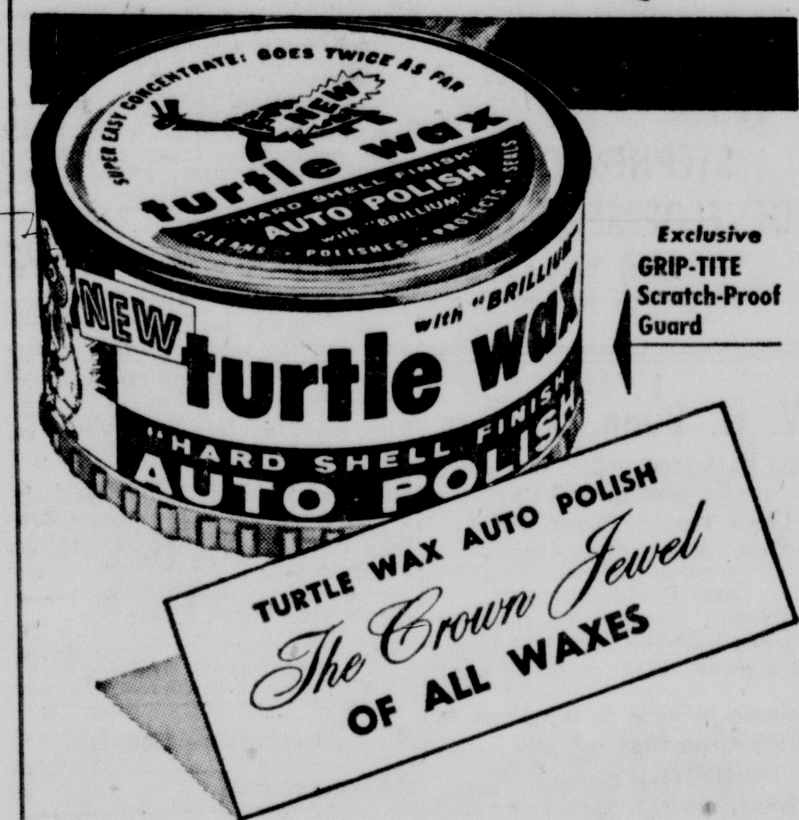

The guest artists whom listeners requested are Gisele MacKenzie, Lois Hunt, Earl Wrightson, Liberace and Vaughn Monroe.

"Let's face it," said Zirato, "there also were plenty of requests for people like Perry Como and Nat King Cole, but there is a small problem of availability involved. Como happens to have a contract with NBC and Cole is engaged in Las Vegas and was not obtainable."

But in the area of request numbers, the pattern followed that which listeners have sought in the past: musical comedy, operetta and (now hear this) opera. There was not a single request for a rock 'n' roll number.

In that connection Zirato observed that rock 'n' roll has few enthusiasts over the age of 17 and those younger than 17 seldom write letters. In fact, he rightfully feels that few people ever write letters unless they dislike something. Thus it was heartening to receive a huge mail from listeners who said what they liked rather than disliked.

Cupid Wins Bout With American Marriage Laws

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Domenico Viola, 23-year-old shoemaker, is an Australian immigrant — unfamiliar with American laws and customs.

He and his girl friend Mary Di-Maio were in love, and 15-year-old Mary knew little more than her handsome beau about such things as marriage laws.

They decided two weeks ago to elope to Elkton, Md. They've learned a good deal about the law since.

First they found out about the waiting period before marriages in Maryland.

Returning to the city, they were met by Mary's irate parents — and again the law.

Domenico found himself in county prison and his sweetheart was lodged in the Youth Study Center. Worse, the intended bridegroom faced possible deportation proceedings.

But to the rescue came sympathetic Municipal Court Judge J. Sydney Hoffman.

He agreed to marry the couple if Mary could win parental consent.

Yesterday, with parents beaming and some legal red tape out of the way, they were married in the judge's chambers.

Jack Benny Plays Concert For Hospital

By BOB THOMAS
LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra may never be the same.

Jack Benny, 39-year-old violinist of Waukegan, Ill., made a guest appearance with the orchestra last night at Philharmonic Auditorium. He played selections from Sarasate, Mendelssohn and Rimsky-Korsakoff. All three composers lost.

Such music lovers as Frank Sinatra, James Stewart, Claudette Colbert, Dana Wynter, Clifton Webb, Gregory Peck, Ann Miller and Sam Goldwyn paid $100 a seat to hear Mr. Benny's West Coast debut as a concert artist. The event was for the benefit of Cedars of Lebanon Hospital.

Charity netted a reported $100,000. What happened to music is another matter.

Immaculate in white tie and tails, the violinist played vigorously while carrying on a running feud with the concert-master. The latter interrupted with violin solos and was removed from the stage at the request of Mr. Benny.

The comedian's staves were more eloquent than his cadenzas. But here and there was evidence that he might have gone farther with the fiddle if he had applied himself more back in Waukegan.

Between numbers he confessed to the audience that he had the feeling of not being needed by the orchestra—"like being stranded on a desert isle with Jayne Mansfield — and her boyfriend."

Albert Goldberg, the Los Angeles Times music critic, had this to say about Benny's playing:

"... As a violinist Mr. Benny has a small but offensive tone, and he apparently uses goose grease instead of resin on his bow."

Marinate cube steaks in a mixture of soy sauce, cooking sherry and crushed garlic; add a little sugar. Drain and cook quickly in a little peanut oil or butter in a skillet.

Jerry Lewis Sees Final End To Team Feud

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This could be the last word in the Martin and Lewis feud. But it's doubtful.

We thought the end was finished several months ago when the comedy pair broke up amid forced smiles and mild mutterings. Then both took to the prints. Jerry Lewis penned a magazine article in which he bemoaned his life with Dean. Martin countered with a magazine article blasting back at his onetime pal.

So where's it going to end? I put the question to Jerry, who reported to lunch in his "Sad Sack" uniform.

"As far as I'm concerned, it's all over," he said with serious face. "I wrote one article and that is all. The only thing I can say now is that I wish Dean nothing but the best."

Will they ever appear together again?

"Will the earthquake be coming again soon? Will it snow in northern Idaho next week?" he replied evasively.

I would accept none of this fancy footwork and pinned him down to the question again. "I doubt very much if we will ever appear together again," he said finally.

What about his film contract with Hal Wallis, which calls for their appearances together? He commented only that his dealings with Wallis have worked out very smoothly. Since Jerry is doing a single in "Sad Sack" for Wallis, the producer appears to have given up his hope to re-team the boys.

Jerry added that it wouldn't make sense.

"Any two comics could have done what we did," he reasoned. "All they had to do was tell the jokes. What made the act great was the relationship between the two men. When that relationship is gone, the act is gone."

Besides, Dean doesn't want it. Why should he invite all that trouble again? This way, he can play golf every morning."

He added that his good wishes for the crooner were sincere. "I want him to be the greatest," he said. "It can only reflect credit on me if he is."

Chimps Get New Shoes

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Zoo's six performing chimpanzees have been fitted with custom-made shoes at $125 a pair for the forthcoming show season.

Designed by stylist John Hatton of the International Shoe Co., the shoes are in combinations of green, yellow, red, blue, white and purple.

The chimps, whose feet grow about 1 1/2 inches a year, must be refitted annually.

Fight to Save Whales Is Partial Victory

CAPE HENRY, Va. (AP)—Nine small whales were tossed ashore here Monday by a brisk northeast storm. Lt. N. H. Jongebloed, at nearby Ft. Story, was ordered to get them back to sea before they die.

Jongebloed and his men attached lines to the tails of the whales and hauled them back into the water.

When the soldiers returned to the beach, there to greet them were nine small whales.

Nearly half a dozen times, the soldiers repeated the performance and only on the last go-round did success seem to be within their grasp.

A check of the beach yesterday Colbert, Dana Wynter, Clifton tory. Seven whales were gone but two had perished above the tide.

Slick Chick
PORTAGE, Wis. (AP)—Motorists on snow-slicked U. S. Highway 51 learned that not even chicken feed is just chicken feed.

A semi-trailer truck which could not negotiate a slippery hill blocked a long line of cars, including one occupied by a farmer.

The farmer pulled a pail of chicken grits from his auto, threw the grits under the wheels of the truck, giving it enough traction to ascend the hill.

Publisher Sees Endless Press Fight

NEW YORK (AP)—The president of the American Newspaper Publishers Assn. said today, "The Bamboo Curtain now hangs by order of our government between us and Red China."

William Dwight, referring to the State Department ban on American newsmen traveling to the Communist China mainland, said they should be permitted to go to any country not at war with the United States.

"This battle we are engaged in to sustain the people's right to know is endless," Dwight, publisher of the Holyoke, Mass., Transcript-Telegram, told a general session of the ANPA convention in a prepared address.

"We find ourselves engaged in a clash on this subject now at the highest level—with the President of the United States, the secretary of state, and the Congress."

A number of newsmen have protested the State Department ban.

Only two days ago, the Associated Press Board of Directors said "qualified newsmen should be allowed to report first hand from the mainland of China."

Secretary of State Dulles yesterday made a qualified offer to allow "a strictly limited number" of responsible newsmen to visit Red China.

He said any such "one-shot experiment" must not lead to an influx of other Americans into China, and that prior approval by "leading figures in the newspaper world" would be required.

There was no immediate indication of what would come of the qualified offer.

In declaring newsmen should be permitted to go for newsgathering purposes "in any country in the world with which the United States is not at war," Dwight said:

"ANPA has in mind particularly the granting of the right to go to Red China and report back to the American people. The Bamboo Curtain now hangs by order of our government between us and Red China."

"Arguments based on the evils of the Peiping regime have been advanced to bolster the decision to keep us from finding out for ourselves what is taking place over there."

"They should not prevail over the majestic principle of the people's right to know, a precious right inherent in our way of life."

Dwight said newspapers in the United States and Canada are "giving magnificent public service."

Off His Back

BARABOO, Wis. (AP)—The phone rang in the office of Salk County Sheriff James Gavin.

"Sheriff," said a woman in a town 50 miles away, "my husband's brother lives up there. The last time he was here, he borrowed my husband's shirt. My husband needs his shirt. I want you to tell his brother to bring it back."

Public Auction

I will sell the following at public auction at the Emmett Neal farm located 8 1/2 miles on South 65, then 2 1/2 miles west on the Springfield Road.
